

There are many great reasons to become a soccer referee:

- Life is full of challenges and being a referee is a perfect way to learn how to meet them head-on and know that you can handle them.
- It's one thing to play the game, it's another to be the referee. Learning how the referee sees the game can only help your understanding of the game.
- Soccer is the sport played most consistently around the world and referees are critical - the game can't be played without them.
- Exercise and Money. Referees get great exercise and get paid to do it.
- Best seat in the house. The center referee at a game gets the best seat in the house for watching a game.
